

Attorney as Analyst: Sometimes the most important function an attorney can perform is to provide a comprehensive review and analysis of a client's problem. In a sense, an attorney is a legal scientific researcher. When properly done, the value of this service is immeasurable. Just as a doctor orders a series of tests including blood chemical surveys, brain scans, x-rays, and other tests to find out what is wrong, the lawyer does the same.

The lawyer's analytical tests include probing the facts by asking all the proper questions regarding those facts. In all legal problems, only certain questions and their answers are .Howevopeexro